

Abbot Covid Corporate Concept

What are you making?

The things we make say a lot about us.
They tell the world who we are
What fascinates our minds
What moves our hearts

At Abbott, we've been making products to improve human health for more than 130 years
From products that prevent infection to medicines that fight cancer
From life-saving devices to eye-opening diagnostics
So, we can see what's never been seen before
And treat what's never been treatable

Here's what we're making today:

We're making the world safer with cutting-edge diagnostics that help identify Covid-19

We're making life more livable with devices that take the pain out of diabetes

We're making partnerships more powerful so that doctors and patients can join forces against heart disease

And right now

We're making history with clinical breakthroughs that are going to help us triumph over Covid

With your help, we hope to achieve more than ever before imaginable.

At this moment in time, we have a special opportunity

Together, let's remake the world.